“The Back Story”:

Most associations like to take time out now and then to observe some phase of their development. Holding a convention is a natural thing to do. In A.A., such an event is far more than a routine cause for celebration. A convention also sets up a useful opportunity to share the A.A. experience in a broader way. It’s a common misconception that conventions are regular A.A. meetings. “There are no dues or fees for A.A. membership...” therefore, some feel there should be no fees to attend. Conventions are special events, not regular meetings. A large convention requires a substantial amount of planning, preparation and expense. State Conventions are held in hotels, and there is a charge for the use of their facilities. Costs include travel and lodging for the speakers, coffee, printing and postage, hospitality food, to name a few. The State Convention is self-supporting. Costs of the event are paid by registration fees and donations. No baskets are passed. Cost is nominal compared to a weekend’s entertainment elsewhere. Our goal is to break even financially. Attendance is voluntary. As responsible A.A. members, we pay our own way.
